SILVER DISCUSSION AT A STANDSTILL.

A complete deadlock has occurred in the U. S. Congress over the silver question.

(From Singapore Papers.)

THE MONEY CRISIS.

LONDON, December 16th.

Silver securities are advancing and rising in New York owing to the belief that prospects are favourable for legislation. Senator Sherman will introduce to the Senate on behalf of the Republican Caucus, after conference with the Hon. W. Wisdom, Secretary of the Treasury, a Bill providing for the purchase of the surplus silver bullion valued at twelve millions and issue one hundred millions of two per cent. bonds for the purchase of bullion when required, in order to make good the retirement of National Bank notes and recoupment of trade dollars.

THE AMERICAN SILVER BILL.

December 17th. The Caucus having discussed Senator Sherman's Bill regarding the purchase of the surplus silver, decided to eliminate the proposal to issue two per cent. bonds for the one hundred millions. [Senator Sherman of Ohio is one of the oldest and most prominent members of the U. S. Congress, and opposed Senator Stewart's Silver Bill throughout. His opinions being all in favour of gold coinage. Of the Bill referred to in our telegram to-day nothing is known here except what appears in the telegram. It is possibly a hedging measure in opposition to the tenor of the Silver Bill introduced a short time ago by Senator Stewart, which, as previously noted, Senator Sherman fought in principle and detail. Senator Sherman is described as an astute politician, and has repeatedly been spoken of as an eligible candidate for the Presidency of the United States.]

THE "SHANGHAI" BURNT.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

Telegraphic intelligence was received here yesterday afternoon of the burning of Messrs. Butterfield & Swire's fine river steamer Shanghai in the Yangtze river on Thursday, and of a lamentable loss of life in consequence. It is supposed that some 200 or 300 Chinese passengers were either burned to death, or drowned while attempting to reach the shore. No foreigners are reported missing. It is presumed that the Shanghai was bound for Hankow, and would in all probability have a full cargo. The Shanghai, if we mistake not, is a sister ship of the Hankow now running on the Hongkong-Canton line. The particulars to hand at present are necessarily meagre, but in the course of a day or two full accounts will doubtless come to hand from the north.

EARLY this morning the police arrested a man at Praya West on suspicion of being concerned in the late piracy case. He was taken to the Central Station and placed with a number of men for the purpose of having him identified, if possible, by the officers of the Namoa. Mr. Jones, the 3rd Engineer, promptly and positively identified the prisoner as being a member of the gang, and Mr. F. McIntosh, although not so certain as Mr. Jones, picked the same man out from the crowd who were drawn up in line before him for inspection. The man was thereupon formally charged with being concerned in the acts of murder and piracy committed on board the Namoa on the 10th inst. He will appear before the Magistrate on Monday next.

The Straits Times of the 19th inst. is our authority for stating that Governor Des Voeux received a telegram, when passing through Singapore the other day, to the effect that Mr. Parnell, while travelling in Ireland, had a bag of lime thrown in his face at historical Kilkenny and that he was seriously injured in consequence, but the doctors who were in attendance hoped to preserve Mr. Parnell's eyesight. If this is true we wonder the information has not been cabled by Reuters, but we suppose the lady who manipulates the wires in London was too deeply immersed in her theological studies, for of late she has devoted all her energies to the task of sending us thrilling accounts of the rise and fall of the temperature, the rain and snow storms, etc., which occur in the British Isles in common with the rest of the world.

REFERRING to the Reuters' cablegram of the 18th inst. which says:—"At a meeting of the Caucus the Republican Senators rejected the Bill for the free coinage of silver" the Straits Times says the telegram relates to Senator Stewart's Bill, and if not considered in connection with the attitude of the various parties of the U. S. Congress towards it, it is apt to be misleading. The object of the Bill introduced by Senator Stewart (who is a Republican) is to place the silver dollar on an equal basis with the gold dollar all over the world. From the tone of our telegram of to-day it may be thought that since Senator Stewart's Bill is not accepted by his own party it is not necessarily the case. The Silver Bill passed last session was not contented with the "Republican Caucus," means merely that the R. publicans will not take it up as a party measure. Last session of Congress it was a minority of the Republicans led by Senator Stewart and aided by the entire Democratic party which passed the present law, and that was only a half measure, anticipating one provision of free coinage of silver. In the present session of Congress precisely the same steps will, it is understood, be taken; that is to say, the minority of the Republicans and the entire Democratic party will unite and pass Senator Stewart's Bill, while before March next it is anticipated that there will be a free coinage of silver in the United States. It is believed and argued that in the next election for President, which occurs in two years time, the Democrats will again unite with the Republican minority which embraces the representatives of the silver producing State of the West, and will either produce Senator Stewart for President or nominate some good Democrat, and put Stewart as Secretary of the Treasury, in either of which contingencies free coinage is sure. In the present session of the Senate and of twenty-four in the House, a majority which is lost when the Democrats unite with a section of the Republican party. The silver producing States have evidently determined to have free coinage of silver even at the expense of breaking up the Republican party.

THE unrivalled success which attended the brilliant racing career of Mr. C. P. Chater in Hongkong and Shanghai has, so far, not followed his efforts to achieve fame on English race-courses. Our popular local "sport," we believe, has been a liberal purchaser of promising blood stock, in some instances paying high prices for well bred yearlings; but no notable victory has yet rewarded his efforts, although he has acquired a reputation for his racing, and a "sounder" judge of racing, or a more experienced trainer than James Wagh is not to be found at Newmarket or elsewhere. Better luck will no doubt come in time, but racing must be an unsatisfactory business to follow when the owner is ten thousand miles away from the scene of operations and unable to take any active part in either selecting his stud or controlling his horses in training. Mr. Chater's sole practical knowledge of racing and racing was acquired in the Far East, but to those acquainted with his racing in this colony, there cannot be the least doubt that his racing was made in the merits of the Mongolian and exceptionally accurate judgment in picking matters generally, his victorious career was principally due. It shouldn't be forgotten, of course, that Mr. Chater's horses were always admirably trained—poor Mr. Nichols was no superior in this department—and skilfully ridden, also that money was never allowed to stand in the way when anything of really superior class was in the market; but all these advantages are manifestly strengthened by the shrewdness and sound judgment of the owner himself. And it is more than likely that had Mr. Chater been in England to exercise some personal supervision over his race-horses during the past season, his balance at Weatherby's would have been more satisfactory than is the case. These reflections have been caused by our observing in the Sportman that Mr. Chater's two-year filly Jessie, carrying 7st. 7lb., took part in the Chesterfield Nursery Stakes of 1,000 sovs. at the Derby November Meeting. As she started at 40 to 1 in a field of 25, her chance of winning was probably not thought very highly of, and as a matter of fact she didn't finish in the leading order, but to make matters worse the Stewards imposed a fine of one sovereign on the owner for not declaring his colours. If Mr. Chater would once more declare his colours in the Happy Valley, Hongkong lovers of true sport would gladly give the popular "straw" jockey and white cap a warm reception next February, and he would, we feel certain, experience great pleasure in again winning the Challenge Cup or Champions' than by the victory of State Allen or Jessie in a handicap at Newmarket or Epsom.

THE Hongkong Artillery Volunteers did the usual "Boxing Day" "march out" at Kowloon yesterday. It was nothing like the success it should have been owing to the unusually meagre muster. The firing, though, was good in every respect, and resulted in the utter annihilation of the imaginary enemy. I AM enabled, says a correspondent of the World, on authority, to contradict the report which has been industriously circulated to the effect that Sir Edwin Arnold has severed his connection with the Daily Telegraph and retired from journalism. The simple truth is that it was arranged some time since that Sir Edwin should have a long holiday, and he determined to spend a considerable portion of it in Japan. He has had a very pleasant time there, is expected back in London very soon, and will then rejoin the editorial staff of the journal with which he has long, so closely, and so honourably been connected.

THE "NAMOA" PIRACY.

MAGISTERIAL INQUIRY.

Mr. Wodehouse continued the inquiry into the circumstances connected with the death of Capt. T. G. Pocock Mr. Petersen and others, who were murdered by pirates on board the British steamship Namoa on the 10th instant.

THE SECOND OFFICER'S STATEMENT.

Mr. C. Richardson, second officer of the Namoa, said after he had had hisiffin he was sitting on the "tween decks with the second engineer when they heard two or three shots fired on the upper deck. They immediately got up and ran to their rooms where the second engineer secured a revolver and then they both went back along the "tween decks until they reached the ladder leading to the main deck when two or three shots were fired at them from the upper deck. The second engineer returned a shot with his revolver and then ran down to the engine room. Witness ran to his own room and closed the door, and wishing to lock it discovered that the key had been removed from its customary place over the wash stand, where he had seen it that morning. He remained in his room about 20 minutes while shots were being fired at his room door and "sink-pots" thrown down the "tween decks. There was a great deal of noise, shouting and running about the decks. From the port hole of his room he could distinguish the Island of Mendoza about two miles to the southward of them. The boatswain first came to witness' room, and knocking at the door told him if he went on deck and gave himself up he would not be harmed by the pirates. He then went up the companion stairs at the head of which he was surrounded by four pirates armed with revolvers who took him to the captain's room, where he discovered a bullet wound in his side. As soon as the Captain saw witness he called him by name, and throwing his arms about his neck and clinging to him in dying agony said "I am dying." Witness laid him on the bed and he asked for some water, which the leader of the pirates had brought to him in a tin cup, but the Captain being unable to drink it witness bathed his forehead. The Captain then told witness if ever he reached Hongkong to give his love to his wife. Shortly afterwards the "tween" came to witness and told him that the pirates wanted him to go down into the saloon, which he did, on arriving there he discovered Mr. McIntosh in the after part of the saloon. Witness told him to go up to the Captain's cabin and that the Captain was dying there. Mr. McIntosh, with the others in the saloon, then went up to the Captain's cabin followed by witness, who was again marched off in search of the chief officer. Thinking he would be in his room he went there, conducted by pirates, he knocked at the door and receiving no answer opened it and went in, but there was no one inside. The "tween" then told him that the pirates said if he didn't get them the keys of the treasure room in the drawer in which the Chief Officer kept the keys, and it being locked, they forced it open with their axes. Witness then picked out the treasure-room key and was marched down to the treasure-room which he unlocked, and on the pirates searching it and discovering nothing of value they appeared very angry and shook their axes over his head in a threatening manner, after which they marched him back to the Captain's cabin, and after remaining there a few minutes he was again summoned by the pirates and they took him to the engine room skylight to call those who were down below to come up on deck. He shouted down to the third engineer, who came on deck with the second engineer and the third officer. They were immediately surrounded by pirates and taken to the Captain's cabin, where a few minutes after their arrival the captain expired. They all remained in the cabin until after the pirates left. After they had got the ship under way the chief officer sent him off to see if the wheel chains were in order, and in doing so he stumbled over the body of Mr. Petersen who was lying dead alongside the wheel. Witness said he could recognize the leader of the gang and a man who seemed to be second in command, who was always with the leader and both of whom accompanied him to the various places he was taken to about the ship. The other men were placed in separate stations and appeared to have a knowledge of the ship. Witness only saw about 20 pirates, but he considered there must have been many more. In his opinion resistance was impossible at any time. He saw the second engineer fire a revolver shot, but he was running at the time and didn't appear to have taken aim, and he could not say whether he hit any of them or not. Witness understood that it was a rule of the Company to supply all their officers with revolvers and ammunition, but none had been supplied him during the six months he had been on the Namoa, and he knew that most of the other officers had got none from the Company. The revolver which the second engineer had was private property. In other ships witness had been in, the Captain or Chief Officer was responsible for the serving out of revolvers and ammunition, and he thought if they had been supplied with them they would have been of service. When first he went on deck witness noticed that each of the pirates was smoking an ordinary cigar, which he considered was a signal of some kind connected with the attack, he believed that they had their arms concealed on their persons all the time prior to the attack. He did not think that the crew were mixed up in the affair in any way.

THE IDENTIFICATION OF PETERSEN.

Captain Booth of the Chinese Revenue cruiser Fai Ho said he saw the body of Petersen at the Mortuary on the 11th instant. The deceased was a light-keeper in the employ of the Imperial Chinese Maritime Customs Service. He was either a Dane or a Swede, and an acquaintance of the witness for about 10 years. As far as he knew Petersen was unmarried.

THE BOATSWAIN'S EXPERIENCES.

Tong Asing, boatswain of the Namoa, said that he was havingiffin in the fore-castle on the 10th instant together with 16 others, members of the crew. The fore-castle was shut off from the Chinese passengers' quarters by a bulkhead, so that he could not, at that time, see them. At that hour he heard the report time the commotion came running down into the fore-castle. He heard the commotion say "I'm afraid of you," and he then ran into one of the sailor's baths and covered himself up with a blanket. Upon seeing this he sent a sailor upon deck to see what was the matter, and when the man got halfway up the ladder being fired at, at once came down again. At the same time a couple of stinkpots were thrown down into the fore-castle. The stinkpots nearly stifled him. Shortly after that the pirates came out for all the firemen to go up on deck, he also ordered the boatswain to appear before him. He did not dare to go up, knowing the pirates were there. Ultimately he went up and was grabbed by a pirate who told him not to be afraid. He then told him he wanted all the European officers to go on deck and that if they would do so they would not be hurt, for all they (the pirates) wanted was money, not lives. Witness then went down into the mess-room while the pirates waited on deck. The second officer was down there, so witness brought him up. He, witness, was afraid that the pirates would burn the ship. The pirates took them to the Captain's room, all witness, they demanded the key of the treasure-room, which was ultimately found in the chief officer's room. They did not find money in the treasure-room. Upon getting on deck they threatened to shoot him. The second officer called the second engineer and two other Europeans up from the engine room. As soon as they came on deck, they were searched and put into the Captain's cabin. He next went down to the saloon and brought out the passengers. The pirate Chief told him, witness, that they need not be afraid, and that they'd all leave the ship at 8 p.m. The passengers then came up and were robbed of all their jewellery and money. After that the Chief ordered him to go to the wheel-house. While they were speaking the other pirates said "better go and search the Chinese passengers." The Chief then left him and went with the others to search the passengers. At that time the pirates were at the helm. He, witness, was standing at the top of the fore-castle deck companion. When left alone, as he then was, he made his way to the fore-castle where he found quartermaster and Chinese passengers, both men and women. It was so crowded that there was no room for them to sit down. The pirates closed the skylight and laid a heavy chain on it. There was no other place of exit from and entrance to the fore-castle than the said skylight. The pirates made him, witness, go down into the fore-castle where he stayed until 8.30 p.m. At about 4 p.m. the pirates came to the fore-castle and ordered the cook up to prepare rice for them. After being shut up in the fore-castle he could hear the noise of boxes being broken open. The noise went up, as soon as called, did not return. At 7 o'clock he noticed the ship was going very slow, and he heard several blasts of the whistle. At 8.30 p.m. the pirate Chief ordered him to go up on deck to let go the anchor. He at once went up with the carpenter and let go the anchor. While doing it they threatened to shoot him if he was not quick about it. He "paid out" 30 fathoms of cable. One of the pirates ordered him, witness, to disable the windlass. Witness then said it was broken already. The Chief then, pointing his revolver at him, said "It is really broken" to which he replied "yes, it is." Then the pirates threw four lamps overboard. At the time he let go the anchor he saw three junks sailing away from the Namoa and three others alongside. The pirates then, shortly afterwards, left the ship, but before going over the side said "we've spared your lives. If anything turns up by and by, just keep quiet. We've made about $20,000." They were in good spirits. He, witness, then went back into the fore-castle to get a cup of tea, and subsequently went into the Captain's cabin. As far as he knew no Chinese passengers were killed. Many of them were slain he thought he would have heard of it.

His Worship.—We've heard that two women and a child were killed.

Witness—I don't think so.

Continuing, witness said he was roughly handled when being put down to the fore-castle. He would know some of the pirates again should he ever see them. The quartermaster who steered the ship that afternoon could identify the Chief and several others. The pirates used a pass-word, Kat-lai, and never used their swords. The passengers in the fore-castle did not make a noise, they merely cried. The women were very quiet also. Two armed men kept guard the whole time at the top of the steps leading down into the fore-castle. They wanted the windlass broken so as to prevent the officers from lifting it, and thereby getting back to Hongkong quickly. They objected to throwing the lamps overboard as it was also an act committed with a view to preventing the speedy return of the Namoa to port. He assured the pirates that the windlass was broken by showing them two pieces of iron, two handles, which he said were fragments of the mechanism connected with the windlass. Some of the pirates suggested that it would be best to run the ship ashore but the Chief said "no, a lot of lives might be lost; it will be sufficient to let go the anchor," and did not hear who shot the Captain and saw no one either shot or wounded. He did not see, at the time he was on deck, any of the three quartermasters shot at.

At this juncture the inquiry was adjourned until Tuesday week, e.g. until the return of the Namoa from her next voyage to Foochow via ports of call which commences to-morrow, the 28th inst.

THE "NAMOA" PIRACY AFFAIR.

THE USEFULNESS OF THE QUEEN'S NAVY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG TELEGRAPH."

Sir,—Please allow me, through the medium of your columns, to call the attention of the seafaring community to the fact that it is clear by the speech delivered by His Excellency of Hongkong last week, that the blame in connection with the scandalous delay in despatching a British gunboat in pursuit of the villains who committed such dastardly acts of pillage and murder on board the British steamer Namoa, on the 10th instant, rests with the "Jolly old Commodore" and other Navy celebrities. This fact should be carefully noted as showing the utter futility of depending on the Royal Navy for the protection either of British commerce or British lives in these seas. This being so it behoves British officers, irrespective of shipowners, to devise ways and means—and that promptly—to prevent a recurrence of the Namoa, Greyhound and various other shocking tragedies. British officers should bear in mind that they are fully justified in adopting means for the protection of their lives, and those of the passengers entrusted to their care. It is their duty—a duty which has hitherto been regarded as obligatory only on port shipowners and Government. Had the latter done their duty in this connection, the Namoa tragedy would never have been the stern, the disgraceful, the shocking fact that it now is. But the mere fact of gross negligence on the part of one party by no means justifies criminal culpam in altero on the other. There is a danger awaiting those who "go down to the sea in ships" in Hongkong. The danger is apparent. Protective measures are an absolute necessity.

As a member of a powerful mercantile marine, federation, I can heartily assure the marine officers of Hongkong that they will be warmly supported by the home as occasions in any measures which they may deem it expedient to adopt with a view to preventing a recurrence of dastardly outrages upon British ships, British officers, British engineers, and the travelling British public.

Thanking you for publishing this letter, which I forward in the hope that the Namoa tragedy, will not be allowed to end in a mere nine days' wonder, as did the Greyhound atrocities.

Yours faithfully,

A BRITISH MASTER,

M.M.S. Association.

Hongkong, 27th December, 1890.

WHAT HE WOULD HAVE DONE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONGKONG TELEGRAPH."

Sir,—During the week a well-known coasting skipper who passed through this port had a good deal to say about the conduct of the officers of the Namoa during the piratical attack made on that vessel a short time ago. He said that had he been there, "he would have broken up some of the furniture in the Captain's cabin, and soon cleared the pirates out," and as good as imputed cowardice to the officers concerned. Perhaps he thinks the important air he assumes would have overawed the pirates—it might, certainly, for his air is high and laughty to a degree.

I think most people who know anything about the Chinese, and who have read the evidence of this sad affair adduced at the Magisterial Inquiry will agree that the officers of the Namoa acted very wisely in going quietly into the Captain's room and by remaining there, for had they attempted to oppose the pirates—armed and defenceless as they were—all of them would probably have been killed. Perhaps this "gassy" skipper will offer his service to the Force in Hongkong, and by so doing will soon make work scarce for that body.

Yours faithfully,

Amoy, 20th December, 1890.

JUSTICE.

NEWS BY THE AUSTRALIAN MAIL.

The E. & A. Company's Australian liner Attila, Capt. W. Ellis, with the Sydney mails of the 31st instant, arrived in port yesterday. We are indebted to our Australian exchanges for the following items of news:—

Mr. Michael Davitt maintains in the Labor World that Ireland is passing through the greatest crisis known in her history during the past 20 years. The question he affirms, is whether the Irish party shall cling to a condemned leader or throw over Mr. Parnell in order to secure the result of Ireland's self-sacrifices.

Mr. J. Dillon, M.P., wiring from America, upholds the action taken by Mr. Gladstone and denounces Mr. Parnell. He says that the great victories achieved by the Irish party during the past decade are now sullied.

Mr. C. S. Parnell is about to issue a manifesto to the Irish party. He avers that the action taken with a view of putting him from the leadership is a conspiracy on the part of the Liberals and to "avenge the voting for Royal Grants." He denies that his retention of the leadership would involve the retirement of Mr. Gladstone from active political life.

It is now stated that a majority of the Irish members of the House of Commons are favorable to Mr. Parnell's retirement.

Mr. Thomas Sexton, M.P. for Belfast West, and other Irish members of Parliament have expressed their intention of resigning their seats if Mr. Parnell's retention of the leadership is upheld.

Mr. William O'Brien, M.P., who is at present in America, cabled advising the party to negotiate with Mr. Gladstone, with a view to a final settlement of the difficulty.

Mr. John Morley, who was present at the Gladstone-Parnell interview, afterwards proposed the appointment of an Irishman as Chief Secretary for Ireland, with another Irishman as his officer.

Mr. Parnell says that he refuses to sacrifice the freedom of himself and his party, and ridicules the idea that his retention of the leadership will in any way endanger the cause of Home Rule, the postponement of which, he maintains, will even be preferable to a compromise which will not gratify the aspirations of the Irish race.

Mr. H. M. Stanley has expressed his intention of divulging the atrocities perpetrated by the rear guard of the Emin Pasha Relief Expedition, in a feature to be delivered in New York on the 31st inst. and has instructed Mr. George Lewis to represent him in any legal proceedings that may arise out of the Major Bartlett controversy. He has also retained Sir Charles Russell.

November 30th.

The German Government have consented to supervise the preparation of the lymph to be used in Dr. Koch's cure for consumption. They have also agreed to supply it to patients at a cost of five shillings, less than three farthings, an injection. The Government invite foreign medical men to visit Berlin and study Dr. Koch's system. The German Government have requested Mr. Koch to retain the secret of the preparation of the lymph. A German has given 1,000,000 marks (£50,000) to be devoted to supply poor consumptive patients with the means of getting cured under Dr. Koch's system. Dr. Israel, assistant to Professor Virchow, the celebrated German anatomist and anthropologist, confirm the value of Dr. Koch's discovery.

Mr. Gladstone has replied to Mr. Parnell's manifesto. He declares that Mr. Parnell has not only been guilty of a breach of faith in revealing the conversation which took place concerning Irish affairs, but that his revelation of the matter is inaccurate in every particular. Mr. Gladstone also states that Mr. Parnell raised no objection to anything that was proposed at the interview.

Mr. Michael Davitt considers that Mr. Parnell is the strongest support that Mr. Balfour has in the House of Commons, and that he has always been a Tory landlord at heart.

Mr. Lambouche, M.P., pronounces Mr. Parnell to be a madman.

Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien, M.P.s, the Irish delegates in America, have cabled to Mr. Justin McCarthy, M.P., stating that the manifesto issued by Mr. Parnell proves that it is impossible to retain him as the leader of the Irish party.

It is asserted that Mr. Gladstone intends to retire from active public life whether Mr. Parnell withdraws from the leadership or not. A fusion of the Irish and Liberal parties will, it is expected, take place and result in a compromise.

MELBOURNE, November 30th.

A sensational attempt to commit suicide by a young married woman named Fanny Gardner, 22 years of age, came under the notice of the South Richmond police court on Saturday. About two or three months since the woman's husband left her, and since then she has given way to drink. Shortly after 1 o'clock on Saturday morning she rushed in a distracted manner to the bridge over the Yarra at Church-street and endeavored to jump from it into the river. Two men who were crossing the bridge at the time grasped the unfortunate woman's dress and thus prevented her from carrying out her intention. The men left the bridge after vainly endeavoring to persuade Gardner to go with them. She, however, promised that she would not again attempt to take her life. Constable Ballard was informed of the affair and made his way to the bridge, but just as he got there he saw the woman suddenly spring over. Instead of falling into the Yarra she fell with great force on to the bank, a distance of 30ft., and miraculously escaped death, a broken arm and bruises being all the injuries sustained. She was removed to the hospital.

LONDON, December 4th.

Addressing a large gathering at Waterford, in the Rosendale Division, Lancashire, yesterday evening, Lord Salisbury accused the Liberal leaders of only repudiating Mr. Parnell when strong expressions of opinion from the country had been manifested. He strongly challenged Mr. Gladstone to plainly state the facts of his interview with Mr. Parnell at Hawarden. Mr. Gladstone's policy had been a double shuffle both towards the Liberals and the Irish Unionists, pretending to lead each to the desired goal. Lord Salisbury expressed his indifference for Mr. Parnell, but preferred a man fighting for his life to base followers, who first backed and then renounced him.

When the House of Commons was in Committee of Supply last night, Mr. Balfour gave some particulars regarding the scheme for ameliorating the condition of the Irish people. He proposed to undertake the construction of railways and other works, the making of roads, the supply of seed potatoes for the relief of distress in the western counties caused by the partial failure of the crops. The sum of £5000 was devoted to defray the initial charges connected with the scheme.

December 5th.

At the adjourned meeting of the members of the Irish party, Mr. Healy, who was accused by Mr. Parnell of insolent conduct at the meeting on Tuesday last, made a strong speech which led to an exciting scene. Mr. Parnell's opponents combated Mr. Clancy's proposed compromise, demanding assurances from Mr. Gladstone with regard to the Irish Constabulary and the settlement of the land question. The adoption of Mr. Clancy's resolutions was regarded as hopeless, and the meeting again adjourned until to-morrow.

To-day's meeting of the Irish party resulted in the appointment of a committee, which includes

Parnell, McCarthy, Sexton, Healy and Redmond, to confer with Gladstone, Harcourt, Morley and others, and learn their views regarding the Constabulary and the settlement of the land question in Ireland. If the majority at to-morrow's meeting express themselves satisfied with the assurances of the Liberal leader, Parnell will retire from the leadership.

The influx of gold from abroad continues. The bank of England to-day received £750,000 from South America.

There has been a collision in East Africa between the British Chartered Company and the Portuguese with regard to the possession of the Matuka country. Three hundred Portuguese on the 8th of November lowered the British flag, but it was replaced a week later by the British, and two Portuguese were arrested.

Dr. Koch has discovered remedies for diphtheria and tetanus.

INDIAN TELEGRAMS.

LONDON, 3rd December.

Sir Edward Noel Walker has been gazetted Lieutenant-Governor of Ceylon.

In the Conservators' case the respondent was undefended. The petitioner testified that she was attacked with illness in 1875, and again in 1883 but was ignorant of the nature of the malady until she instituted an action for separation and a charge of cruelty was founded. Thereupon the petitioner stated that she rejected her husband's imploring appeal for pardon because he brought the baseless charge of adultery against her with Doctor Biggs after the discovery of his ladyship's adultery with her maid Moore. The evidence of the doctor as also of the maid Moore and Doctor Briggs confirmed her ladyship's statement as to her illness and adultery.

MANDALAY, December 3rd.

Reliable information has just come to hand that a well-known Siam leader, who styles himself the Kan Kling Prince, and who has for the past two years caused so much trouble in the Shan State of Monieck and adjoining territory, has again raised the rebel-standard. He is reported to have arrived at Mandalay with a large body of men that he ever had before, and apparently meditates an invasion into the other territory. The remarkable feature in the present movement is, that a number of messengers bearing letters have been sent across the Irrawaddy to the western bank. By whom sent is unknown. So far as can be ascertained, none of these messengers have yet been captured, but the letters they bear are believed to be incitements to people in other districts to rise. News has also been received from Mongpan that a body of several hundred Chinamen are marching towards the Irrawaddy, apparently intending to cross the river to the western bank. Their object and cause of this movement is unascertained. The excitement has spread widely, and it is reported that work has ceased at the amber mines and jade mines.

Calcutta, 8th December.

The question of forming Burma into a Lieutenant Governorship is again on the tapis. The change will probably be effected this season.

TIENSIN NOTES.

The representatives of the Deutsch-Asiatische Bank yesterday announced that their new branch in Tientsin had been opened. Mr. Emil Reiders Sub-manager, has been authorized to sign in conjunction with Mr. Otto Merckley.

All steamers that are to do so, have come easily up to the Bund at Sze-chu-in this week, there being plenty of water in the river. There have been high tides on the Bar, 11ft. 6in. being recorded yesterday.

There is a great deal of sickness much resembling influenza in the province of Shansi among the Chinese as well as among the foreigners there—in fact a general epidemic. The people anxious to get over it as soon as possible, and hearing that by next Spring it will be over, they have in many places gone through the ceremony of "passing the New Year," hoping thereby to hasten its departure.

The Chinese Government seems to be making no headway against piracy on the Southern coast, the attack on the Yungwa being quite in the old style. And what is the Hongkong Government about that in its jubilee year its harbour should still be the headquarters of the Southern pirates? Hongkong is no doubt a wonderful little colony, and it is never tired of boasting of its wealth, its enterprise, and its resources. But a little less talk and a little more attention to good Government would be a more wholesome note to strike at the approaching jubilation.

The unnatural and unreasonable weather has continued during the week. The air has been thick and murky, and the sun has scarcely shown itself the whole week. There is as yet no appearance whatever of Winter—Chinese Times.

FOOD FOR CONSUMPTIVES.—Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is a most wonderful food for the Consumptive. It not only gives strength and increases the flesh, but banishes the irritation of the throat and lungs. It is very palatable; children take it like milk, and in all wasting diseases both for adults and children it is a marvellous food and medicine. Any Chemist supply it.—A. S. Watson & Co.
